DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The two story, centre gabled residence utilizes a shiplap with endboard surface construction. The low slant, shed roofed veranda supported by columns, surrounds the building on three sides.

The first story main window is a bay which has a segmental arch, stained glass transom and single sash windows in each section with both the bay and transom surrounded by moulded trim. The other first story window is a simple double hung, 1/1 construction with a lugsill and shutters. The main entrance is a scalloped Dutch door with a blind transom and is located between the two first story windows.

The centre gable with return is marked by a second story construction of four louvered openings. Near the top is a window with a two sash with mullion and plain trim surround design.

BUILDER/ARCHITECT

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The residence is typical of a southern country house as depicted in the Architecture of Country Houses by A.J. Downing and first published in 1850. The home, probably built as a summer residence, is atypical in comparison to other examples of Waverly architecture because of the feeling of horizontality and lack of window design and wall articulation so generally popular in the 1875-99 time period, especially in homes of this size.
